

PREHISTORIC MAN HAD BEST HEALTH

"Stomach Man" Makes Some
Telling Blows at Modern-Day
Methods of Living.

THEORIES STIR COMMENT IN SALT LAKE CITY

People of Zion Widely Interested in Work of East-erner Here.

The theories of the Cooper "Stomach Man" and his belief that the stomach is the key to health have aroused widespread comment in Salt Lake City. When interviewed yesterday another person's idea was launched, which not only will result in still further discussion, but also the "Stomach Man."

I have proved in Salt Lake City that 95 per cent of all chronic diseases are caused by stomach trouble. People in all walks of life—the lawyer, business man, clerk, the man who works with his hands, they have all come to me since I have been meeting the people of this city at Smith's "Busy Corner" drug store. Main and Second South streets, in practically every instance nothing has been the matter with them but stomach trouble.

What is the cause? Modern-day methods of living. The prehistoric man never had stomach trouble, nor nervous prostration, nor kidney or liver complaint, constipation or rheumatism, nor anything is wrong with their system. They do not dose themselves with drugs like an animal. The relief of the prehistoric man exists today in the man, the savage, the cannibal, usually they are exactly like animals, and they doctor themselves in the same way as the beasts. If they feel anything is wrong with their system they do not dose themselves with drugs like an animal. The relief of the prehistoric man exists today in the man, the savage, the cannibal, usually they are exactly like animals, and they doctor themselves in the same way as the beasts. If they feel anything is wrong with their system they do not dose themselves with drugs like an animal.

The medicine which I have been preaching here, and which seems to be becoming so popular, is prepared exactly that principle. It contains nothing but roots, herbs, and forest Nature to do the real work, though my remedy is primarily a mechanical treatment, it is a tonic and health builder for the whole system.

RED CROSS STAMPS SALE BEING PUSHED

Not only in Salt Lake City, but all over Utah, women's clubs, health societies, the Y. M. C. A., social organizations and other forces are pushing the sale of Red Cross Christmas stamps before the public. As Christmas draws nearer the public interest in the stamp becomes keener and the sales grow larger. The indications are that the stamps will be as necessary to develop genuine Christmas cheer, as well as Christmas gifts. The general interest is much more pronounced this year than a year ago, when the public in only some of the larger cities could obtain the stamps. During Christmas time last year, Salt Lake bought 20,000 of these stamps and pasted them on letters and Christmas parcels, which were sent to friends. More would have been sold if they had been here on time, but there was delay in getting them here. The people are not only buying the stamps for the clever idea and Christmas cheer which centers in it, but each stamp sold is a contribution of one cent to the Red Cross, which is a white plague in Italy. The indications are that the sale will be heavier than a year ago. The money will be sent to Miss Florence Jennings, chairman of the Red Cross society in this state, and when the funds from this whole state reach her, early in the new year, it is expected that a goodly fund will be available for Red Cross work.

The Red Cross helps to sell 75,000, or $750 worth of stamps in Utah, and every one is urged to help this sale by buying the stamp and urging others to buy.

NEWS COMES FORWARD WITH FOOLISH STORY

If Chief Barlow Has Murrie's Skull, He Doesn't Know Anything About It.

"I have a skull in my office, but no bones. I do not know whether the skull is that of Edward Murrie or somebody else. The skull was brought to my office and given to me, and that is all I know about it."

Chief Barlow, when asked regarding the reports in an afternoon paper, Thursday, to the effect that the skull possessed by him was that of Murrie, made this reply. The chief stated that he was informed one day by a medical student of the University of Utah, named Roberts, a reporter on a local paper, that Murrie's body was at the university. He was asked, he says, if he would like to see it, and replied in the affirmative. Later he received a telephone call to visit the university and did so in company with Detective Harry Curran.

In the dissecting room, the chief says, were ten bodies lying on the tables. He was shown some of these and was then taken to where the body of an old man lay. The scalp had been removed and the skin drawn down over the face. This was replaced and, after viewing the remains, the chief said that if Murrie was in the room that was his body. Present at the time, besides the chief and Detective Curran, were Dr. John Sundwall, professor of anatomy in the medical department of the university; Dr. H. P. Kirtley, assistant county physician and a member of the faculty; Roberts, and maybe one or two other students.

Had there been a body of another elderly man in the room, the chief says that he would not have said that the one he looked at was that of Murrie, and he is by no means certain that it was. He had been told by Roberts that the body was there, and that was what led him to believe that possibly the one he saw was that of Murrie. Owing to the removal of the skin from the face, and its being laid back in place, identification was difficult, especially as the body had been at the university for over two months.

"Some people are evidently attempting to make a mountain out of a mole hill," said the chief. "I told them I would like the skull when they had finished with it. A skull was sent to me, but whether the one I have is that of Edward Murrie, Bill Jones or Sam Brown I do not know."

Edward Murrie was buried in Calvary cemetery and there his remains now rest, unless someone has exhumed them without the knowledge or sanction of the authorities. An investigation will likely be made to determine this fact.

IN POLICE COURT

C. L. Drum, who was arrested some time ago, charged with keeping a gambling house, was released yesterday by Bowman in the police court Wednesday afternoon. He withdrew the plea of not guilty, entered a plea of guilty, and in its stead entered one of guilty. Judge Bowman promptly fined Drum $150, which was paid. The case against Harry Keats, charged with the same offense, was dismissed.

Ella Mins, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of disturbing the peace, and who, when arraigned, entered a plea of not guilty, withdrew that plea, changing it to one of guilty. She was fined $10.

Jacob Dorr, a butcher, charged with violation of the pure food laws, in offering meat for sale which contained suppurative, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was set for trial December 21.

Henry Doyle entered a plea of guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace, and was sentenced to thirty days in jail. James Riley, charged with violation of the pure food laws, in offering meat for sale which contained suppurative, entered a plea of not guilty, and the case was set for trial December 21.

William Seller was charged with having assaulted his wife, Louisa, on Sunday. He entered a plea of not guilty, but that made no difference for Judge Bowman speaks German fluently. The court asked William or Louisa, if he was guilty, and the reply came: "Sure, she choked me, and me choked her."

The court decided, after some meditation, to continue the case until this afternoon for final disposition. At the morning session of court James H. Young was arraigned on a charge of failing to provide for his minor child. He entered a plea of not guilty, through his attorney, and his preliminary hearing was set for January 11, with bail fixed at $200. It is claimed that the case of Young is one of "too much mother-in-law."

In court, Young's attorney stated that the parent was willing to provide for the child, but had been out of work for some time. A $10 note was deposited with the court as an evidence of good intent, to be used in the care of the child, and the money was turned over by Judge Bowman to Young's divorced wife.

McKEAN RELIEF CORPS ENTERTAINMENT SUCCESS

The members of the James B. McKean relief corps entertained Thursday evening at the Wellington hotel. The affair was known as the Christmas social of the association, at which donations were received for needy war veterans and their families. Over 100 members and their wives were present, besides a large number of friends from the various other corps of the city.

In the early part of the evening an interesting program was rendered. The Rev. P. A. Shipp, of the Phillips Congregational church, was the principal speaker. He spoke of the good work this organization is doing for the war veterans, and complimented the members on their good showing. Mrs. Lefty Montgomery, of the Relief Corps, presented a musical offering, while Howard Don gave a vocal solo, being accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Rose. Miss Jessie Gold made a hit when she sang "Please Take Me Up in Your Airship." Miss Louise Nelson followed with a recitation. Several members of the corps spoke briefly about the work being done by the association, after which the assembly adjourned to the main dining room, where a luncheon was served. At the luncheon short talks were made. After the floor was cleared, and a large orchestra furnished excellent music for dancing. Mrs. Dean, president of the McKean corps, had charge of the affair. A very good sum was realized.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB TO GIVE SERIES LECTURES

The Social Science club held its regular weekly meeting last Thursday evening. Mr. Dalton, the announced speaker of the evening, was unable to be present, and his lecture, "The Evolution of Man," was given by Mr. Brown. After the consideration of a number of business matters, announcement was made of a series of Sunday evening meetings which will be open to the public. A program covering several months is being arranged and will shortly be made public. Several prominent public men and women are promised as speakers of the series. Next Sunday evening's meeting, which will be the first under this arrangement, will be a debate on the question, "Is Socialism Scientific?" The Rev. William H. Brown speaking for the affirmative and Clarence Thomas of The Tribune on the negative. Plans for the regular Thursday evening meetings were discussed. It is proposed that the study of the modern drama and the discussion of civic problems shall alternately engage the members of the club. In direct line with this plan, the remainder of the evening was spent in the reading of Mr. Brown on the first act of Bernard Shaw's drama, "Major Barbara."

ARCHAEOLOGIST TALKS ON RUINS OF CRETE

F. H. Fairclough, associate secretary of the American Institute of Archaeology, delivered an illustrated lecture at the university Thursday on "The Recent Archaeological Discoveries of Crete." The excavations which have been made recently, since the island of Crete became the property of Greece, go to show that the people who lived on the island in early times reached a high plane of civilization, said Prof. Fairclough. The Knossos, a great castle which has been unearthed there, is much the same in plan as a Roman camp, and is likely the origin of the old Greek labyrinth of tradition. The building was equipped with a system of drainage in which the pipe used was similar to the modern bell pipe. The art was well developed, the mosaics and paintings having a modern air about them. The cups and pottery in the Knossos were elaborately formed and marked.

The building of these ancient ruins dates back to the stone age, he said, and in some instances to the redoubtable age, at least 1500 years ago. The ruins obtained are judged from the similar constructions in ancient Egypt, said Prof. Fairclough.

THINKING 17 YEARS

For 17 years many people have been thinking of turning their claims to us for collection. They have been reading continuously of the Thousands of Dollars we have collected for their acquaintances and friends, but they have wondered and thought and pondered with the question in their minds as to whether we could collect some money for them. In the meantime the people who have been owing them have forgotten all about the obligation, and some have died, leaving their bills unpaid.

Many people continue to think, instead of getting busy and turning in their claims.

When a claim is once recorded with this Association it stays on our records forever. We purchased a new index the other day, which cost $105.00 and will properly index 500,000 claims. This is the third large index we have purchased for the purpose of keeping the records pertaining to claims placed with us for collection.

It is time you turned in those claims. You can not devote a part of today to better advantage. Get them ready. We will collect over $250,000 during the year 1910. You can have some of this money if you turn in your claims.
